STAFF COMMENTS AND BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

Creating and periodically updating a municipality's Parks and Recreation Master Plan is fundamental in providing the framework for orderly and consistent planning, acquisition, development, and administration of the parks and recreation resources, programs, and facilities. Essentially, this document identifies the recreation needs in the community, predicts future demand, and states policies for physical and social planning, providing a comprehensive vision for the park system, individual parks, open space areas, recreation facilities, and programming.

The City last updated its Parks and Recreation Master Plan in 2004. Since then, there has been substantial change in population and demographics. Additionally, the parks system has expanded exponentially with the addition of numerous parks and facilities and the extension of the trails system. Furthermore, the City has seen its population center shift as growth has primarily been on the north side of the City. This growth and change has necessitated an update in the Master Plan.
