Director Harty stressed that Payment in Lieu of Taxes (PILT) is still an issue.

City Manager Juden stated that Director Harty and staff in the Finance Department have done a great job, stressing a soft freeze for hiring and other decisions that were made during the pandemic have helped City budgeting. He stressed that residents during the pandemic had an increase in services instead of a decrease in service. He displayed a graph depicting CIP Program Trends over the last 16 years. He stated that the breakdown by year for the next five years goes down significantly. He provided a list of the revenue sources, highlighting that a large percentage of the revenue comes from Regional Flood Control, the Regional Transportation Commission, and Utility Enterprise Funds. Director Daffern shared a breakout of the five-year plan by category and stressed that this five-year plan focuses on current needs, but is fiscally constrained.

Director Daffern responded to Mayor and Council questions. He provided information of funding sources. He shared that the City meets with the outside agencies who provide funding to determine which projects would be best for them and for the City. He provided information on how prioritization was done and stated that he and staff try to blend and balance the money and projects evenly across the wards.

When asked about signage and stripping that was done by the City separately in the past, that currently, they are adding these into projects. Thus, as an example, he said that the Regional Transportation Commission has paid for signage, when appropriate, as part of their projects in the City.
